OUR MEN IN THE SERVICE

The local committee urges all Parents, Relatives, and Friends of Middlebury men serving under the colors to send in all names, with MILITARY addresses, that they can secure. If the military address is not known, send in the home address with the branch of service if known.

This paper will be sent to all men in the service. It is to your interest to keep us informed of your whereabouts. If we do not know your address, or that you are in the service, we cannot serve you.

ORIENTATION COURSES FOR FRESHMEN

A New Method of Instructing Freshmen

Last Wednesday evening in the Old Chapel a course in Orientation was started for freshmen. The idea of the course is to make the freshman realize that he must not plunge into everything that presents itself in college without first giving each matter due consideration and that he must be efficient in his college life and activities as well as in his lessons. The lectures will come on successive Wednesday evenings.

The course opened with a talk by President Thomas on "The Purpose of a College". In the second meeting, Dean Wright will explain "The Machinery of the College", putting especial emphasis on the necessity of rules and regulations and the spirit in which they are formulated. Suggestions will be invited. At this time will also be explained the offices of the college and the various committees. Conferences of students will be invited. Members of the incoming class will be informed of various college rules at this time.

The third meeting will be held in two sections, the men's group being addressed by Dean Wright and the women's by Dean Ross. The subject for that evening will be "College Activities, Their Function and Value". The advantages of student life in a small college and the student customs and manners will be discussed.

Professor McFarland, of the Pedagogy Department will tell the freshmen "How to Study". He will explain the common faults and how to correct them. He will also give suggestions of method from Psychology. There will be note taking by the students at this lecture.

Professor Collins will explain the college curriculum, and its aims. He will tell of the advantages sought in the system, and evils avoided, of the advantages of planning a symmetrical course,and the disadvantages of too great specialization or scattering.

The last lecture in the course will be given by Professor Bryant. He will explain

MIDDLEBURY FALLS BEFORE THE GREEN

Ninety-Seven Men in Uniform Face Nineteen of The Blue and White.

Last Saturday came and night-fall brought forth what was almost the end of a perfect Midd day. As you all know, the paper says that we were defeated by a score of 32 to 6, but that does not fairly tell the tale of those fighting blue and white men that afternoon on the Alumni Field at Dartmouth.

With many storied Dartmouth buildings towering skyward, with hundreds of alumni back for Dartmouth Night, which took place the night before our battle, and with 900 men of Dartmouth headed by three cheer leaders dressed in white spread across the field of vision, our small, but mighty tough and spirited aggregation of perhaps 19 men sat awaiting the first Dartmouth yell which was the signal for our big M blankets covering these men trotting onto the field and ready for the skirmish.

The yell came and Brainy's little voice could be heard all over the Dartmouth gymnasium—"Come on fellows your time has come". They did come on.

Amid the cheering and with 90 big husky green sweaters ready to prey on us at any time, the whistle blew, the ball was kicked and, men of Middlebury, from that moment on never did a team fight as did ours—yours and mine.

Time and time again did our little line, outweighed by 15 pounds to the man, tear through that line of the big opponent and smother their back-field in their very tracks, or sometimes throwing them for a loss of many yards. On went the game in this manner until at the end of the third quarter the score stood 13 to 6.

It was pitiful at this moment, when, between the quarters a fresh Dartmouth team, bearing no mud on their uniforms whatever from their tiresome, gruelling battle, came rushing on and stood between our same small eleven and perhaps victory, for we certainly had them outtrimmed, out-guessed and out-spirited in every sense of the word until this big change.

What was the result? The men fought as hard, yes harder than ever before, but the breaks went to the green absolutely, two passes were intercepted, one thrown by Keppler, our big blonde full-back, as he was slipping toward the earth. The game was gone, but until that last whistle blew we were not defeated, nor in many senses of the word are we now.

The line-up was as follows:

Middlebury		Dartmouth
Mead, Murnane, McCray	l.e.	Myers
Myrick	l.t.	Healy
Bolivar, Dixon,	l.g.	Murphy
Dake	c.	Shepard
Brien, English	r.g.	Neely

Campus Try-Outs

On Saturday last the fall try-outs for The Campus were announced in chapel and posted on the bulletin board. The results call to our mind the fact that a large share of the students are apparently under the impression that The Middlebury Campus is an institution run by and for the interests of a circumscribed group of individuals who have found no room in other activities of the college to give play to their surplus energy. It seems to be very difficult to entirely shake off the last traces of the old system which had a paralizing effect on any tendency of The Campus to develop and expand.

That The Campus is of and for the student body and the alumni cannot be too strongly urged. The board is perpetuated by a system which is as fair to all as has been possible to make it, and no one is refused an opportunity to earn a place on its roll. It is the duty of the students collectively to support our weekly, but this can be done only by individual effort.

The present situation is unique. On account of war conditions the working staff is cut in half and at the same time we have nearly doubled the publication. The importance of getting out a creditable paper was never so great. The War Service Committee has undertaken to furnish Campuses to all Middlebury men in the service who are not subscribers. In this manner we have a great and unusual opportunity to lend cheer to those who are living under the most trying circumstances resulting often in the extremes of endurance. Thus, at the present time, one hundred and fifty soldiers and sailors are benefitted to a greater or less extent by this publication.

The call for workers has met with little response. For the honor of the group which you represent, for the support of the college publication, for the honor of the institution, and lastly for the men who are fighting for their country, sacrifice a little of your personal convenience. Do not let the call go unheeded.

A Word to Freshmen.

In view of recent developments, perhaps a word of kindly advice to the entering class would not be out of place.

Many of you come to college with little idea of the environment in which you will find yourselves. The life is new. It is in truth a new existence and naturally it is hard to know just how to conduct yourselves.

The greatest mistake that a freshman makes, is in trying to appear different than he is. This leads to "freshness" and certain trouble. The fraternity system is to a large degree responsible for this. In his anxiety to make himself noticed by a group of men he clothes himself in an artificial personality. He longs to do something that will single him out from the common herd. If on the other hand he is quiet and reserved, he is afraid he will be considered uncompanionable and will then lose the pleasant associations of college life. The freshman is thus between the devil and the deep sea. It is no wonder that he blunders along and gets into trouble at every turn.

If The Campus could give advice in two words to every freshman in college it would be simply this: "Be natural". Just be yourself and nothing more. You will find that the same principles of right conduct that are accepted as standards the world over are accepted and applicable here.

It is up to you to prove yourselves men in what is undoubtedly the most trying time you have ever experienced. If your lot seems hard, bear up under it like heroes not like dogs driven by hard masters.

Subordinate yourself to the activity of the college in so far as you can do so without violating your own personal standards of right. If you do this well, you will eventually be stronger for having passed through the test.

COMMUNICATION

"Let's Go!"

We all know that this year is different from other college years. We also realize that there are sacrifices to be made and difficulties to be met, but a whole lot depends on ourselves just how successful we make this year.

War makes things bad enough without our help and it is up to us to make activities and college life as good and profitable as possible.

We have come back this year in a rather unsettled way and it has surely been hard to "hit our books" but there is still time to start the grindstone, so lets get down to it and put some good old effort right on our subjects.

Athletics have suffered severely from the war and many of us go around with long faces, crabbing the outlook for the year. This crabbing will never get us anywhere, lets all go out for something and stick by that branch of athletics until the end even if we don't make the team. We owe it to the boys who have gone to do our best to help keep old Midd on its feet while the war continues.

One thing more. If Midd ever needed you it is now. Don't be the fifth wheel of college life but show that you have the "Midd" spirit and take up some branch of activities. Go out for football, or the outing club, or the orchestra or band, or the branch of college activities for which you feel yourself best suited. Let's do our "bit" here by keeping things up to standard. Let's help The Campus or Kaleidoscope and also the "profs" and "prexy", by doing our best.

ROLAND HOLBROOK.

Notice to Subscribers

There is always moreor less difficulty at the opening of the year in straightening out the subscription list and in making sure that every subscriber receives The Campus without delay. We request that all who fail to receive their copy at the right address drop a slip of paper into the mail box on the outside of the office door, if a local resident, stating the issues which have failed to show up, together with the correct address carefully written.

SENIOR COUNCIL TAKES ACTION

At exactly 10:35 a. m. Friday morning last, a visitor walking along the campus might have been mildly astonished and startled by the sudden sight of a group of green-capped students rushing violently from the doors of the new chapel and plunging recklessly down the chapel hill as if intent on some dire purpose, at a pace ne'er equaled by them before, even including that of their first two weeks in college. Why the excitement? Why the hurry? Calm your fears, dear sir, it is nothing but the men of the freshman class diligently atoning for a rash act, thoughtlessly committed by them on the Wednesday night previous.

Briefly, the story is this: The freshman class after listening long and earnestly to the splendid address of "Prexy" last Wednesday evening was so impressed by the speaker's words on: "The Purpose of Going to College" that they straightway thoughtlessly voted to carry out the plans of a few of the bolder students and have their class election that very night thus overthrowing all former custom and, far worse than that, disobeying their conscientious leaders the Senior Council, whom they, by electing to this office, had decided to recognize as brotherly advisors. The Senior Council, hearing of this, was naturally very worth but let it be said to their credit, were fair-minded enough to hear both sides before taking any definite action. Summoning before them the newly elected Class President and a few of his advisors, they asked the defendants to give their side of the case. As the freshmen could give no satisfactory excuse for their misdeed, they were dismissed and the following morning the Senior Council came before the men of the freshmen class and decreed that beginning with that very morning they should run and run fast while on the campus and should continue as cursorial anthropoids until the next Monday evening at 6:00 p. m. Sunday excepted. A fair minded and unprejudiced person cannot but feel that the action of the Senior Council was just and fair, for all college classes hereafter will certainly think twice before daring to disobey the Council.

Musical Association?

We, the students of Middlebury College, do hereby inquire whether the Women's Musical Association, for the students, by the students and of the students has perished from the earth or whether it is merely enjoying a quiescent period of indefinite length.

Surely the talent we possess should not be wasted but should be cultivated for the benefit of the college. In view of the success of last year's program, which included the Japanese Operetta and the musical program given in the chapel it is to be hoped that the organization will soon commence work and that the results will be even better than those of last season.

MIDDLEBURY VS. NORWICH

The defeat at the hands of the strong Dartmouth team last Saturday does not sting so very much when we think what a nice showing our few small men made against the heavy New Hampshire aggregation on a slippery field. It was not until the end of the game that Dartmouth began to feel sure that it was theirs. For the greater part of the game the score was only one point in their favor.

In these days the small colleges are beginning to assert themselves in the football world. A college the size of Middlebury has a right to feel somewhat elated when it is able to hold the score in the small figures and add something to its own side of the tally when playing against a team which draws its players from a student body six times the size of the student body of the men's college at Midd. They had two-thirds as many men on the field in uniform as we have in our whole college!

Let's look at who is knocking at our door! Last Saturday Norwich was defeated by Fordham in New York by the score of 60 to 0. We know nothing about what kind of a team Fordham has, but a score like that sets us thinking. A few of Middlebury's best men were out of Saturday's game against Dartmouth because of injuries, but we are assured that they will make themselves manifest against Norwich next Saturday. This paper is not in the habit of making forecasts in regard to athletic contests, and what would be the necessity of making them this week? Midd's loyal rooters have minds of their own and don't need the forecasts from a bunch of fellows who know nothing about football, and spend their time scribbling off enough dope to fill four pages of The Campus each Wednesday. Get the freshmen out to collect material for the bonfire, sophs.

P-rade Scheduled for October 20

The annual freshman P-rade which was scheduled for the day of the Amherst football game, a week and a half ago, will be held next Saturday. The line of march will form in front of the Old Chapel at two o'clock, and will proceed over the usual route down town and out South street to the Athletic Field, arriving there before the beginning of the Norwich football game. The freshmen have had over two weeks to prepare, and we may this year expect an exceptionally good exhibition. Some of the parts have recently been re-assigned by the Sophomore Rules Committee.

To the Coeds

(Vers Libre)

Oh Coeds bright and fair,
We see you everywhere,
On the campus, your presence fills
Our vertebrae with funny chills.
And it were ever thus.
We could not be without you, here at Midd.
We should be sad if we were rid
Of your sweet smiles,
Which our drear life beguiles.
You're lovelier far than any bird
Whose tuneful song can e'er be heard,
Singing to its mate.
And yet you keep us up so late,
To fuss and not to study.
Oh coeds, pretty, bright and fair
Oh Midd's dear coeds quite beyond compare,
Oh coeds.

[Submitted by a Sophomore. We hope he will recover his mental equilibrium before the end of the year. Editor.]

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet is glad to announce that permission has been obtained to hold future Y. W. C. A. meetings in the old chapel.

The Women's Bible classes met for the first time Wednesday evening in Pearsons Hall. Thirty girls enrolled in the senior-junior class; eight in the sophomore class and twelve in the freshman class.

A meeting of the Silver Bay Club was held Wednesday evening in Pearsons Social Hall. The following officers were elected: President, Elsie Monteith; vice-president, Ruth Baldwin; secretary-treasurer, Ruth Clark.

A Y. W. C. A. cabinet meeting was held at 4:45 Wednesday afternoon in Pearsons social hall. In view of the fact that many new members will soon be added to the association, it was decided to procure membership application cards. Another important matter discussed and one of interest to the women was that of more general conversation at the tables. There are apt to be too many tete-a-tetes or else complete silence is wont to reign. Surely there are plenty of worthy topics of conversation which are interesting to all.

"Silver Bay has Cultivated Them"

A regular Y. W. C. A. meeting led by Elsie Monteith was held at 4:45 Thursday afternoon in the old chapel. It was devoted to the reports of the girls who went to Silver Bay last June. These reports were on the various events of "A Day at Silver Bay" and were given in the order of their occurrence.

The music consisted of hymns, a piano solo by Helen Paine and Silver Bay songs by the delegates.

COLLEGE NOTES

Mrs. Edgar Brown of Newark, N. J., has been visiting her daughter, Dorothy Brown '18.

Guy Richardson of Dartmouth Medical College has been visiting his fiancee, Hazel Coburn, '19.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Rogers of Norwich, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers of Atlantic, Mass., recently visited their niece, Marguerit Rogers, '18.

Last Wednesday Bessie Jennings entertained Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Wakeman of New Haven, Conn., who were on an auto trip through Vermont and the White Mountains.

A sophomore class meeting was held Tuesday evening at 7:00 in the Hemicycle. The following officers were elected: President, Haskins B. Canfield; vice-president, Anne M. MacKenzie; treasurer, Charles J. Haugh; secretary, Madine J. Rogers.

At the junior class meeting held October 9 at 1:30 p. m. in the Hemicycle the following officers were elected: President, Don A. Belden; vice-president, Helen S. Stilphen; treasurer, Howard W. Watson; secretary, Elizabeth G. Johnson.

A meeting of the class was held at 1:30 the following day for the purpose of discussing the advisability of publishing a Kaleidoscope. No decision was made.

On Friday afternoon at 1:45 a junior class meeting was held at which it was decided to grant power to the editor-in-chief, Cecil Plumb, to make appointments to fill the vacancies on the Kaleidoscope Board. It was voted to levy a five dollar tax on each member of the class.

Send-off for the Team

Friday, October 12, at noon, Middlebury's football team started for Hanover to meet the strong Dartmouth aggregation. Almost the entire student body was present to give the defenders of the blue and white a rousing good send-off on what was undoubtedly the hardest trip they will take this year.

The Musegehe Club

The first meeting of the Musegehe Club was held at Pearsons Social Hall, October 9, at 5 o'clock. There were tryouts for the position of pianist, Ruth Baldwin being chosen for first pianist, with Angeline Simpson as substitute. A meeting followed, with the election of Dorothy Nash as leader. There is every prospect of a successful year, as there is talent in the entering class, and more interest is shown by all.

1921 Elects Officers.

The class of 1921 met for the first time as a whole in the Hemicycle, October 10th, for the purpose of electing officers. Raymond S. Noonan of Buffalo N. Y., was elected president; Lucy Calhoun of Middlebury, vice-president; Sam P. Davis, of Newport, treasurer; and Christine M. Ritchie, of North Adams, Mass., secretary.

President John M. Thomas conducted the meeting, until the election of the freshman president.

Bible Class Opens With Attendance of Nine

The first Bible class for the faculty and students of the men's college, as was announced in the last issue of The Campus, was held in Hepburn social hall Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Two members of the faculty and seven students attended. The class was led by Dean Wright. The subject for this Saturday will be, "What are the essentials of a Christian discipleship."

This class is for all—faculty and students. A cordial invitation is extended to all to give and to receive.

1919 Kaleidoscope

The class of 1919 faces an unusual and difficult situation this year, for the problem of publishing a Kaleidoscope under the existing conditions is no small one.

There are now about sixty-four juniors, which is a falling off of twenty-nine from last year. Among those who did not return are several who were members of the Kaleidoscope Board. These facts are serious drawbacks to the interest of the Kaleidoscope both as regards the financial side and as well the management.

Without the cooperation of the other three classes and of the faculty it will be impossible to produce a book of any sort.

The vacancies on the Board are to be filled by appointments made by the editor-in-chief, Cecil Plumb. The plans for the Kaleidoscope are to be left entirely in the hands of the Board at present.

Teachers Wanted

The college authorities have received recently a number of urgent requests for teachers and there are no names on the available list. The special call is for men to take the places of the men who have entered the army, but there are also openings for women from time to time. If any Middlebury graduates, with or without teaching experience, would be available for positions, they should communicate at once with Prof. Raymond McFarland of the Department of Pedagogy.

ALUMNI NOTES

'77.—On the evening of October 8 the home of James M. Gifford at Chatham, N. J., was robbed of $25,000 worth of jewelry.

'91.—Carl A. Mead paid a brief visit to Middlebury last week.

'93.—Dr. C. E. Hesselgrave is attending the National Council of Congregational churches held at Columbus, O., as the delegate from Connecticut.

'11.—A daughter, Charlotte Catherine, was born on October 7 to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ames Coates.

A son, Charles Agnew, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Spaulding (Mable Agnew '12) on September 16 at South Hingham, Mass.

'13.—Mr. Davison gave, at Ferrisburg, his fourth entertainment for the Red Cross, October 12.

'13. Mary Archibald of Proctor visited friends in Middlebury over the week-end.

On Saturday, October 6, Ethel Paine Gorton '16 was married to Willard Duncan Carpenter '14 at Naugatuck, Conn.

'16. Helen Bosworth and Marjorie Lee visited friends on the Hill last week.

'16.—Mary Holmes is teaching mathematics in a private school, Wykeham Rise, at Washington, Conn.

'16.—The engagement of Marjorie Lee '16, to Mr. John L. Selden, Jr. of Northampton, Mass., is announced. Mr. Selden is a graduate of Massachusetts Agricultural College, class of 1913, and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

'17.—Alice Harriman and Letitia Calhoun were in town over the week-end and called on friends on the hill.

Ex-'19. Janet Johnson is one of the cast of a play to be given by the students of Vassar College.

Ex-'20. Elizabeth F. Ball is a pupil in the Savage School of Physical Education, New York City.

Ex-'20. Ruth F. Farwell has a secretarial position with the J. P. Morgan firm of New York.

Hildreth—Wright Wedding.

Miss Lois Belle Wright '16 and William Wesley Hildreth of East Jaffrey, N. H., were married on Friday evening, October 12, at 7:00 o'clock in All Saints Chapel, Shoreham. Louise Nelson '16 was maid of honor and Anne Fisher '16 was bridesmaid.

Mrs. Ezra Brainerd, Mrs. Perley Voter, Marjorie Lee '16, Helen Bosworth '16, Margaret Chatfield '18, Christine Webster '18, and Helen Stilphen '19 attended the wedding.

Marjorie Lee, Margaret Chatfield and Christine Webster served at the reception, which was held after the ceremony.

the duty and need of student honor in daily work and in examinations.

This new course in Orientation will be of great help to the students of Middlebury College, and if it is successful, may result in a longer course, or at least in a continuance anotheryear. The problem of making a freshman realize exactly what is expected of him is a difficult one, and the faculty of the college have taken this way to assist the college student in getting the most from his college course, beginning at the very start so that no time will be lost in getting under way. The idea has been tried in a few colleges before, and the outcome at Middlebury will be watched eagerly.

Pedagogy Prizes

Two prizes will be awarded at Commencement, one of $30 and one of $20, for the two best essays by students working in the Department of Pedagogy. All students who are interested in competing for these prizes are requested to confer with one of the instructors of the Department as soon as convenient.

Prexie For Football

Last Monday morning President Thomas held the men after chapel for a few moments and issued a strong appeal in behalf of the football team; an appeal which, he declared, neither the captain, manager, nor coach had asked him to make, but was prompted solely by his own feelings regarding the football situation. He pointed out the fact that the burden of the work upon the football field was falling upon a few men, and called upon every able-bodied man in college to turn out and do his bit toward building up a strong team. "If you haven't a suit and can't get one, put on a pair of overalls and a jumper, and do what you can". Let there be a hearty response to this appeal from the President!

Church Bible Classes for Students

Bible study classes are again being organized for the students in at least two of the churches of the community in connection with the Sunday Schools, namely in the Congregational aud Methodist churches. The Methodist class, which is in charge of Professor Sanford, reports an attendance of twenty for the first Sunday.
